How To Protect Your Office From Germs

Think about an employee walking into your facility. This can be ANYONE. They open the door by grabbing the handle and proceed to shake hands with everyone they meet. They visit the employee lounge, grab a cup of coffee and go back to their desk where they proceed to turn on their computer, check email and answer a phone call. Everywhere this employee goes and, in particular, everything they touch has germs. Without disinfecting, these germs will spread and add the likelihood of sickness to one or many. Disinfecting touch points drastically reduces the odds of spreading germs and employee illnesses related to them.

The following are a few ways office cleaning can prevent the spread of germs and greatly reduce the odds of sickness among your employees.

1. Touch Points: These are direct areas the human contact is made. They include door knobs, phones, keyboards, mouses, kitchen counters, water fountains, etc. They're hot spots for germs and need to be disinfected on a regular basis! 2. Bathrooms: Places germs can spread but also where they can be stopped! Touch points include flush handles, sink handles, door handles, and soap dispensers. We highly encourage signs to remind your team to please wash their hands. 3. Protection: You never know what is going to walk through your door but with preparation you can protect your employees and clients. We recommend strategically placing bottles of hand sanitizer and tissues around your lobby and office for people to use. You should leave them on any tables or counters you have. You should also encourage your employees to get their flu shots.

With these things in mind, always remember the fight against germs never ends!

Brand

Think for a second about your brand. No, not the brand of the company you work for but your personal brand. Most people never stop to think about their personal brand, however, it's far more important than the company you work for. Your personal brand is carried with you throughout your lifetime and most closely scrutinized by those you love and care about you. It's carried with you during your personal time as well. Although your company brand is vitally important to your career success it pales in comparison to your personal brand. One of the most important questions we ask during interviews at Kleen Pro Solutions regards one's personal brand. We want to make sure that our employees are concerned about their brand and the image they project as good citizens. A huge reason we've been highly successful has been due to the quality of our cleaners, we expect nothing but the best. However, it always starts with what's inside of our employees as it pertains to customer service, integrity and pride in what they do. Remember the next time you think about branding that your personal brand is superior to any other brand there is! Never compromise your brand!

Non-Profit of the Quarter: The Florida Aquarium

Over the past few years, The Florida Aquarium has undergone some amazing changes thanks to generous donors who have invested in our $15 million Rising Tides Campaign. For the first time in its 20-year history, they have expanded by adding Stingray Beach, The Carol J. & Barney Barnett Learning Center, Journey to illuminated by changing colors of light. You can help support the Aquarium's mission by purchasing a custom-inscribed plaque. These pieces of art also make great gifts for weddings, anniversaries, graduations, and birthdays! We encourage you to visit one of our local treasures!

Madagascar, the Jeff and Penny Vinik Channelside Room and the upcoming Mosaic Event Center. Ripples of Life, one of the newest endeavors at the Aquarium, was created by MGA Sculpture Studio in St. Petersburg. The sculpture features beautiful metal fish and birds arranged in overlapping ripple patterns
